Randall Ebner
Board Chairman, The Center for American and International Law

---

Randall Ebner, the former vice president, and general counsel of Exxon Mobil Corporation was elected to serve as CAIL's chairman in October 2021.

Ebner joined Exxon in 1980 after graduating from Tulane law school. He progressed through a number of assignments in the law department, including litigation, transaction and management positions. From 1999 to 2000, he was a member of the law team supporting the Exxon and Mobil merger. Thereafter, he held law management positions in the Chemical and Gas and Power Marketing Companies. In 2009, he became assistant general counsel for corporate law and in 2013 became assistant general counsel for compliance and corporate law.

Ebner was elected chair of the Executive Committee in October 2018. Throughout his career, Ebner has been actively involved with many legal-professional organizations, including serving on the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Institute for Legal Reform Board of Directors, the National Center for State Courts Board of Trustees, the Civil Justice Reform Group's steering committee, the National Judicial College's Board of Visitors, the Tulane Law School Dean's Advisory Board and Energy Law Center Board, and the Board of Southern Methodist University's Law School's Rowling Center for Business Law and Leadership.

In 2019, Chambers and Partners recognized Mr. Ebner as a General Counsel Influencer for his impact on the legal community. In November 2019, he received the Texas General Counsel Forum's Magna Stella Award for in-house counsel leadership.

Born in New Jersey, Randall (Randy) M. Ebner holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, and a Juris Doctor degree from Tulane Law School in New Orleans, Louisiana.
